The stranger in the Hebrew Bible

"... you know the state of mind of the stranger, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt." (Ex 23:9) At various levels (social, normative, religious), the relationship with the stranger/foreigners appears in many pages of the Hebrew Bible. The term "foreigner" is controversial in current public debate today. This course aims to offer a biblical insight, eschewing both easy "actualizations" and underestimation of the discourse.

New Testament exegesis/Selected passages from the letter to the HebrewsB2,3_4 ECTS/M1,2_6 ECTS*(2 hours per week)

This letter often remains at the margins of New Testament study, unjustly overshadowed by the great texts that have marked Christian theology. Actually, it is characterized by depth and originality of thought, helping us also to grasp the variety of theologies expressed by early Christianity. In addition to analyzing the main passages of Hebrews, we will also try to give due attention to the way in which the Old Testament is interpreted here: The numerous quotations make this letter a true essay in biblical theology.

Seminar (+ course). New Testament Exegesis/Scriptural references in the Synoptics: comparing styles

M1,2_2 CFU(1 hours per week)

One Bible, different uses. The Old Testament is used by the three synoptic gospels in different ways, and the purpose of this seminar is to analyze a few passages in which the characteristics of each evangelist stand out most prominently. With an eye to the Middle Jewish biblical hermeneutic.

Accreditation

B2,3: a) active participation in the course (preparation of translation of the text, b) final oral interview on the texts studied in the course (reading, translation, commentary and interpretation)

B3: (a) and (b) as B2, + (c) final written exam (exegesis of an assigned text not studied in course, to be completed in 12 h)

M1/M2 4+2 (of the seminar) ECTSs (depending on whether the year abroad is M1 or M2): a) and b) as B2 + c) preparation of a 15/20 pp paper (exegesis); d) in-depth seminar.

SECOND SEMESTER

XNTB01

Introduction to New Testament Reading/B1_7 ECTS (5 hours per week)

The Introduction to the New Testament course is structured around three main topics. First, we delve into the study of the world in which Jesus and the apostles were born and worked. We will address the principal writings of this rich historical period, which are inescapable if we are to fully understand the origin of Christianity and its theology. The second topic is the narrative literature of the New Testament: we will examine in depth the history of the formation of the texts, the historical and cultural contexts in which they were produced and handed down, the sources, traditions, forms, editing, the relationship with historical facts, and the significance of the story in its narrative development, with a strong focus on research on the historical Jesus. The third part deals with epistolary literature, focusing on the Pauline corpus. The study will be illustrated by the reading of various New Testament texts.

Accreditation B1: written and oral examination on the subject of the Introduction course.

New Testament Theology/The Middle Jewish theology of the synoptic gospels B2,3_3 ECTS/M1,2_5 ECTS (2 hours per week)

What if we try to read the theology of the synoptic gospels not only as Christological reflections internal to the Jesus movement, but as documents in dialogue with first-century Judaism? How are Mark, Matthew, and Luke, in their different backgrounds of origin and theology, influenced by Middle Jewish thought? We will find that these gospels neither derive from Middle Judaism nor mark a path of separation from it, but are an integral part of it, a full expression even where we perceive the existence of a conflict with "the Jews" or the "synagogue."

Accreditation

B2: a) active participation in the course; b) final oral interview on course topics.

B3: active participation in the course; study of a textbook on New Testament Theology; final written and oral examination on the textbook and the topic of the monograph course (examination bibliography given in class)
M1/M2: (depending on whether year abroad is M1 or M2) active participation in monograph course; development of a 15/20 pp. paper; oral exam (on monograph course topic)

Pro-Seminary

The Nobla Leiczon/B1_ 2 ECTS (2 hours per week)

This course aim is to introduce beginners in theological studies to the methodology of historical research by working on a specific source. Furthermore, this course want to encourage a reflection on the significance of church history in Protestant theology. The source to interpret is the Nobla Leiczon, of the 16th century's Waldensian Manuscripts. This text allows insights into the theological thinking of the Waldensians before their adhesion to Protestant Reformation.

SYSTEMATIC THEOLOGY/ Prof. Fulvio Ferrario

FIRST SEMESTER

XSIC01, XSIC02

Introduction to systematic theology/Fundamental structures of the Christian faith/ B1,2_3ECTS

(2 hours per week)

The lectures will sketch the main lines of the Christian Doctrine, following the Nicene – Constantinopolitan Creed. The course has also the methodological goal to make students familiar with the way of thinking of Protestant Dogmatic Theology.

Examination bibliography

F. FERRARIO, Libertà di credere, Torino, Claudiana, 2014².

Si consiglia vivamente di utilizzare come strumento di consultazione (cioè in vista del chiarimento e dell'approfondimento di contenuti che gli altri testi menzionano solo di passaggio: il testo non costituisce, come tale, materia d'esame),

A.E. MC GRATH, Teologia cristiana, Claudiana, Torino, 1999.

Accreditation

Accreditation requires passing an oral interview, lasting about 30 minutes. The first topic of discussion is the candidate's choice, the second the teacher's choice. In the optimal case, two topics should suffice. The notes will be an element of supplementation, but clearly do not replace the analytical reading of the texts. Introductions to Luther's texts are part of the required preparation.

XSIB01, XSIB02, XSIB03

History of Modern and Contemporary Theology/ Moments and authors of XXth Century Theology /B1,2_3 ECTS

(2 hours per week)

The lectures will present a little trip in the history of Christian thought in XXth Century, with emphasis on the main authors and periods: Harnack, Barth, Bonhoeffer, Bultmann, Rahner, Tillich, Second Vatican Council and developments in Roman Catholic theology, present debates.

Examination bibliography

History of religions. Non-Christian religions in Italy. History, doctrine, current affairs/ B1,2_3 CFU (2h weekly)

Religious pluralism in Italy is a fact; however, it is not only a recent phenomenon. The presence of Jewish and Islamic communities on Italian territory has a long history. Starting from these two centuries-old presences, the course deals with two other constantly growing religious areas: religions of the Indian subcontinent and those of the Far East (China and Japan). The starting point is religions in their current state; thus, it is a synchronic approach combined with a diachronic one as to the history of each individual faith community.

Accreditation

Written report (8 000-10 000 characters, including spaces), on a topic agreed upon with the lecturer. b) Colloquium of about 30 minutes, divided, in principle, into two topics, one of which is chosen by the candidate or applicant.

Theology of religions. From faith to faith (Romans 1:17) / L3/M1,2_3 CFUs.
(2h weekly)

The main objective of the course is to identify in the field of Christian theology useful methodological tools for the proper setting of dialogues with other faith communities. An in-depth reflection on the dialectical tension between faith and religion forms the conceptual basis of the reflection. The main topics developed during the lectures compose a useful framework for a theological evaluation of the major world religions. Completing the lectures is the seminar portion (8 hours) of the course devoted to reading Emile Durkheim's essay, for a Definition of Religious Phenomena (the text will be provided by the lecturer).

Accreditation

a) Classroom report (approx. 20 min.) on one of the topics of the seminar part or a written report (10,000–12 000 characters, including spaces), on a topic of the course agreed with the lecturer. b) Colloquium of approx. 30 min., divided, in principle, into two topics, one of which is chosen by the candidate or applicant.

Bioethics Course/ L1,2,3/M1,2_3ECTS

(12 hrs total)

This course offers basic training in Bioethics with emphasis on the Protestant theological perspective on this complex area of study. The articulation of the course includes an introductory module that outlines the historical framework of the subject, beginning with its origins in the research of Protestant theologians, and explores its interdisciplinary character; a part dealing with the main bioethical models and methodology; and a seminar part devoted to the application of ethical-theological reasoning tools to a scientific and biotechnological topic. Readings of texts and documents of different orientations will be offered, so that students can acquire the necessary competence to interpret and analyze a bioethical position by applying correct modes of argumentation.

Course. Catechesis with method: authenticity, attention to learners/B1, 2_3ECTS

(2h/week)

The course has a twofold aim: 1) to develop valuating skills in the field of catechesis and religious education; 2) to be able to translate them into methodologies that take into consideration the psycho-social, cognitive and religious development of all age groups, valorising and reorganising experiences and any previous knowledge in the catechetical field. The following topics will be covered: introduction to historical catechisms, psycho-social and religious development, methodologies suitable for "toddlers' worship", Sunday school, adolescent catechism and adult education and intercultural groups.

The course is offered exclusively in online mode.

Course. Christian Worship in the 21st Century/ B3/ M1,2_3ECTS
(2 hrs weekly)

In the light of the history and theology of Christian worship through the centuries with attention to the Reformation of the 16th century, the ecumenical and liturgical movement of the 20th century, and the liturgical reforms of the Second Vatican Council in the Catholic Church, it is proposed to examine Christian worship in the globalized and postmodern world of the 21st century in its ecclesiological, ecumenical and multicultural context. Then it seeks to ask the relevant pastoral questions looking to the future.

Course. POP Theology/ L1,2,3/M1,2_3 CFU

This course will introduce students to the theological analysis of mass cultural phenomena, aimed at understanding and dialogue.

The aim of the course will be the rediscovery of the complicated relationship between Christian theology and pop culture, made up of reciprocal stimuli, influences, provocations and challenges, keeping in mind that, from a Protestant point of view, neither theology nor culture should be the prerogative of a priestly caste.

The structure of the course includes an initial work on a shared definition of 'pop theology', the treatment of some examples of artistic, musical, literary and cinematographic works, and, in conclusion, a written paper by the students, which will be presented and discussed in the group.

Feminist and Gender Studies course. Women's authority. Beyond the Gospels in the writings of early ChristianityB1,2,3/M1,2_2 ECTS(20 hrs total)

We will read apocryphal writings about women and writings in which women appear as authors. We will follow the traces of women's discipleship, traditions that draw on the figures of Eve, Mary of Nazareth, and the apostolic figure of Mary of Magdala. The struggle for women's authority also passes through revelation and prophecy, as with Thecla, Perpetua, Maximilla and Quintilla, and several others. The very distinction between canonical and apocryphal texts reproduces and perpetuates the marginalization of women enacted in the first centuries of Christianity.
